

Personocratia's Path

ONE SINGLE PROBLEM – ONE SINGLE SOLUTION

1. ONE PROBLEM – SEPARATION

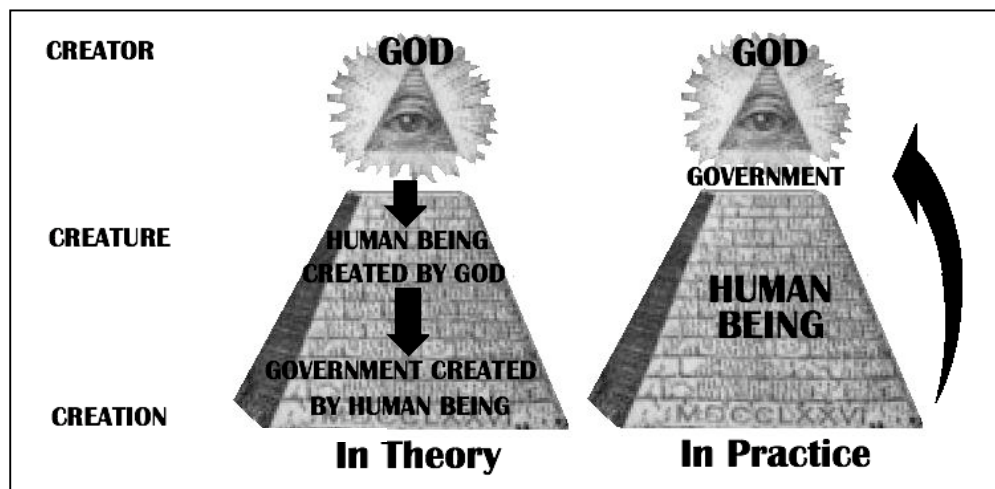

“The world is governed by very different personages from what is imagined by those who are not behind the scenes”, said Benjamin Disraeli. The true world leaders are not the state leaders that we thought we voted for, but non-elected rulers. These are faithful members of secret societies and control with an iron hand the various leaders of banking, financial, and industrial cartels, intelligence groups, multinational corporations, and all levels of government – municipal, regional, provincial, national and international.

Many people have written about the new world order, but they forgot the most important part. Remember Julius Caesar's famous expression: “divide and conquer”? As long as I am divided inside myself, I create division on the outside. Yet, ROCSSSS¹ want me to believe that the creator is external. They strengthen the separation between me (soul, spirit) and myself (physical, emotional, and mental bodies). The government invades this space, which is religiously maintained by ROCSSSS, and rules my life so that the elite's best interest is fully satisfied.

In the world of illusion in which I live, the following hierarchy is officially proclaimed: Creator (God) => Creature (human being) => Creation (government). However, in practice, things happen differently. The government rules over human beings. How can that be?

Since its creation, the government has squeezed into the gap between the creator and its creature, and rules human beings in the name of God. Monarchs and presidents claim to have divine rights, insist that they are God's spokespersons, and intervene between creator and creature. And I accept this situation simply because I am unconscious of being Idessa, unlimited creatrix² of all that exists. In reality, I am both – creatrix and creature.

2. ONE SOLUTION – UNIFICATION

As there is only one problem – the separation between creatrix and creature – there is also one single solution – their union. To achieve this, I must remember at all times who I really am – Idessa, unlimited creatrix, inherent to all that exists. Here is what happens when I become conscious of my true identity and I behave as a creatrix in all aspects of my life:

- ϕ It is the end of separation between creatrix and creature.
- ϕ It is the end of hierarchy, of the dominant ruling over the dominated.
- ϕ It is the end of fear, of the sheep that is afraid of the wolf.
- ϕ It is the end of the saviour, the good shepherd protecting his flock.
- ϕ It is the end of all religious (ROCSSSS) and political (NWO) systems.

¹ Religions, Orders, Cults, Secret Societies, Science and Spiritualities. Science is part of ROCSSSS because it is based on beliefs about an external creator called “Nature” or “Fate”.

If indeed, it is the end of dominant/dominated systems, will we all become equal, just as Martin Luther King claimed in 1963? The answer is no! At that moment, he was referring to the US Declaration of Independence (1776) which states: “We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness.” In this quotation, human beings are created by an external creator, thus maintaining the separation between creator/creature or dominant/dominated. The basic hierarchy is still in place. As long as I believe in an external creator, equality remains impossible. I am at the creator’s mercy, the victim of his wishes and the tyrannized target of his earthbound representatives.

The sole solution is found in the union of creatrix and creature. In fact, each human being, extraterrestrial, animal, plant or object is the external manifestation of a single and unique supreme being, inherent to all that exists. Consequently, each human being is Idessa and is equal to all other beings. There is no more hierarchy. Equality manifests itself.

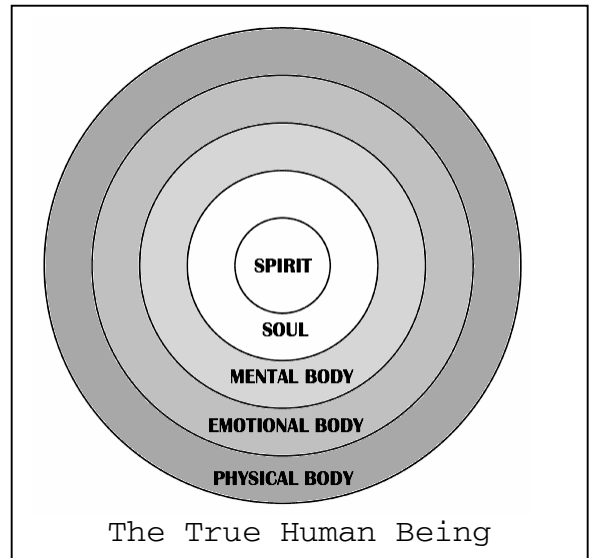

In reality, each individual is omnipotent. The only difference between two human beings is their level of consciousness, their awareness of who they are. The more conscious the individual, the more elevated is the frequency of his body, the more powerful he becomes. This is how omnipotence can be manifested.

How do I behave when I am conscious of my true identity as the sole creatrix of all that happens to me? I start acting like a Personocratia. My daily actions become aligned with my true nature and I create for myself a totally new life. Nothing from the past can help me any longer – beliefs, laws, rights, privileges, customs, statutes, etc. I am a true person, neither natural nor artificial. A new being!
